

I'm in a bad comp, but it's not mine

Why am I here?

What are my odds here?

What am I?

Ambush; oddity is invisible/hostility. Can I dodge the blow?

1d + 1 out of Brilliant + 1 out of Reserve. 1 5 6. The 6 says yes; I put it back into Brilliant. I discover "Sharp Ears 1" and I'm "Grazed -1".

I throw myself aside as a dagger of ice, wielded by an unseen hand, hisses through the spot where I was, grazing my arm.

Dramatic Move; show something awful off-screen.

There's a line of blood, sticky and dark, on the floor, running out from under the closed door.

Can I tackle the assassin?

1d + 1 Sharp Ears + 3 Reserve. 2 1 3 4 3. A 4; I choose success at a cost, with five bad dice.

I lunge into the invisible assassin, taking us both to the floor. The blade slices across my palm and gouges my arm.

Bleeding -3 and Injured arm -2. Can I hit him accurately enough to knock him out?

1d + 3 Brilliant + 4 Reserve, all of it. 1 4 2 4 1 6 5 4. The highest, the 6, drops by 5 from penalties. I read the 5 as "yes", but that's five more bad dice. Injured ribs -3, injured arm worsens by 2 to -3, bruised hand -1.

The three good dice, the 4s, go into Fisticuffs.

I plant a fist as hard as I can right where I hope his face is. The edges of my vision are going black, and I'm dizzy, and —

Why is someone trying to kill me?

You have Amnesia -3 and Seize Fate 0.

Roll a Starting Trait at 3.

You have 7 Reserve dice.

Roll a Location, two Keywords for Setting Scenes, and an Action. Describe how you wake.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?

Roll an Interrupt and Oddity.

Frame a question about what you do.

You get one die just for trying.

You can move dice from one reasonable Trait to the pool.

You can move dice from your reserve to the pool.

Roll your pool; these dice are in play.

RESOLVING THE ROLL

If negative Traits apply, subtract them from the highest die, down to 1. Carry extra over to the next highest, and so on.

Pick one die to answer the question.

6 You get the answer you want.

2-5 Choose: you get the answer you want, but there's a minor complication OR you don't get what you want but there's an upside.

1 You don't get the answer you want and there's a major complication.

DISPOSE OF THE DICE

If the answer is a 6 or there's an upside, move the answer die into a positive Trait.

If it's a 1 or there's a minor complication, move the answer die into a negative Trait.

On a major complication, add two extra 1s to the dice in play and add a die to your reserve. Roll an Interrupt.

Move any remaining dice in play into loosely appropriate Traits, using the fiction as a guide. If a die is 4+, reveal or boost a positive Trait, 3-, a negative one.

Traits cap at 3, except Seize Fate, which can hold 6.

Narrate the outcome, then roll a Dramatic Move and frame a new question...

TRAITS

Traits can be anything from attributes and skills to events or relationships.

Create Traits as they are discovered in the fiction. Look for chances to reveal and relate.

You may raise Seize Fate once per Scene.

Reduce a negative Trait by one after you apply it if you can explain how it wasn't that bad or is getting better.

Reduce Traits if the fiction requires it.

STARTING TRAITS

1	quick	4	deadly
2	brilliant	5	skilled
3	determined	6	lucky

INTERRUPT (3-)

1	ambush	4	proposal
2	alarm	5	assault
3	explosion	6	Conflict

ODDITY PART A

1	inexplicable	4	forced
2	vicious	5	unexpected
3	invisible	6	out of place

ODDITY PART B

1	movement	2	stigmata	3	whispering	4	shadows	5	bullies	6	hysteria
2	nightmare	3	thing	4	vertigo	5	scent	6	echo		hallucinate
3	attraction	4	blood	5	wind	6	action		flashback		time
4	static	5	hostility	6	lights		attack		cold		vibe
5	fire		water		gears		death		knife		thump
6	blow		weather		illusion		touch		noise		emotion

When your negative Traits total more than twice your positive, mark down each time you don't get what you want.

If you have three marks, your memory is lost. Don't reduce Amnesia again, and subtract Amnesia from Seize Fate.

SCENES

Set the scene using tables; include an Oddity.

Each scene, use at least one Trait that you haven't before.

When you don't know what's next, roll a Dramatic Move.

When you run out of reserve, end on a bad note.

BLANK SLATE
is by Tam H.

Swords Without Master.

September 12, 2017.

Start the next Scene under duress and refill your reserve at the end of it.

REMEMBERING

When Amnesia is reduced, remember a Missing Piece.

The first time it hits 0, set it back to 3 and roll an Escalation and a Keyword to End Things.

The second time, begin the denouement. Roll a Big Reveal and a Keyword to End Things. Escalate.

End the game after this or one more scene, your choice.

MISSINGPIECES

INITIALS

INTERRUPT (4+)

1	bribe	4	seduction
2	shout	5	betrayal
3	slap	6	Escalation

SEIZE FATE

Spend Seize Fate to bring dice into play as usual.

In the final scene you may also spend it on Outcomes; otherwise the fiction decides.

ESCALATION

1	bigger plot revealed
2	victory; it's not real
3	knife in the back
4	bad guy planned it all
5	real bad guy revealed
6	roll a Big Reveal

A DIFFERENT ANGLE

Replace Amnesia with a measure like In the Dark or Threatened. Seize Fate becomes Victory or Discovery.

Missing Pieces becomes Clues.

ORACLE

For guidance, frame a question and roll to answer. Discard the answer die.

If you use a Trait or Reserve, resolve as usual instead.

BIG REVEAL

1	major character dies	they're not who you thought
3	story within a story	this is not the end
3	you had it all along	you're not who you thought
